

Abstract

A method for representation, interpolation and/or compression of data includes identifying a two-dimensional interpolation function $s(z)$ based on a sampling function $a(z)$. A Cauchy integral theorem is applicable for the interpolation function $s(z)$. The interpolation function $s(z)$ is used for the representation, interpolation and/or compression of the data.